

Gender Studies Minor

Advisor: Dr. Kimberly Kelly

224 Allen Hall

Gender Studies is an interdisciplinary field that examines the complex interactions of gender with other social statuses such as race, class, sexuality, and nationality. Gender is a central aspect of personal and social identity, and a key sorting mechanism in social stratification. In addition to the field's examination of the historical contributions and concerns of women, gender studies also explores research addressing men as well as trans and non-binary people. Understanding the full range of gender identities and inequities enhances the abilities of students to succeed in a variety of fields and professions.

Undergraduate students earn a Gender Studies minor by completing 18 credits of course work from a variety of fields distributed as follows; only nine credits from any one department may count toward the minor.
